Pacific Reflexion - Buli Leka Face and Décolleté Massage with Exotic Shells

Our face is a reflection of our inner life and therefore is of utmost importance. Gentle touches applied to the face, together with scents of the Pacific, allows one to drift into a world of care and nurturing, to awake the senses and let the energies flow.

In conjunction with the Beauty International Fair 2010, Pacific Spirit introduces this new beauty concept. The face and décolleté massage with Buli Leka shells offers the user an extraordinary program of music, scents, energy and fantasy, which will be experienced by the customer as a present which can be taken home.

Central massage element is the Buli Leka shell, a wonderful source of vitality, which is used in the energetic massage, based on the Yin and Yang equilibrium in the face.

Each section of the face will be anointed with coconut oil and activated with the shell. The blood circulation will be boosted, which will lead to an all over sense of wellbeing. A heart shaped shell adds a tender element of the heart to the total massage experience. A convenient starter set and step-by-step guide makes it easy to begin.

AmorePacific stages recall after safety of Aritaum lip plumper called into question he safety of a lip-plumping product launched by Aritaum has been called into question after users took to online forums to document their adverse reactions, according to a report published by The Korea Herald.

Several consumers posted images of swollen lips and rashes, allegedly caused by the Amore-Pacific-owned cosmetics brand's Volume Up Oil Tint, online.

Dermatologists have corroborated the evidence, claiming that the oil-base may have allowed bacteria to grow or the combination of oil and colour fixing agents may have caused irritation.

AmorePacific has voluntarily recalled certain shades and serial numbers of the oil tint product, but having carried out tests, reported to Korea's regulatory body that it met standards for microbial limits and did not qualify for mandatory contamination control.

"The reasons can be the differences in personal skin types. But we are looking closely to products that were not sold via official distribution channels, but through unofficial channels such as e-commerce and open markets online," Lee Kyung-min, AmorePacific's Communications Manager told The Korea Herald.
